Today, I submitted the last assignment in my undergraduate studies. This is an important milestone that it marks the end of my college life.

In the past four years, I gained knowledge of finance and information systems and met a lot of great people coming from different backgrounds. I am sure that what I learned here will help me prosper as I navigate through career paths.

I would like to thank all my friends, professors, and parents for their support along the journey. We will see soon in the next chapter.

Thank you very much and take care!
